Columbia Industrial Boulevard reopening Friday

WHAT: E.R. Snell Contractor, Inc. plans Friday to reopen Columbia Industrial Boulevard to the new alignment of the Riverwatch Parkway Extension project.

The intersection will be similar to what was previously in place prior to the closure. As staged construction progresses and additional lanes are opened, this intersection will be signalized. Citizens can expect the next planned traffic shift toward the end of June, which will move traffic across Stage 1 of the Reed Creek Bridge from Connor Drive to Blue Ridge Drive.

WHEN: If weather permits, the roadway will reopen to the public on the afternoon of Friday, June 17.

WHERE: Columbia Industrial Boulevard at the newly constructed tie-in with the Riverwatch Parkway Extension
